Foreword

'Twas the first day of June in '57;
I overslept and arose at eleven.
I shaved and I pondered my busy day —
Two things at a time have become my way,
For a ghost can't nick himself, needless to say.
Clutter was strewn all 'round the attic,
For my wife's cleaning days are rather sporadic.
The litter of last evening's game of chess
Began to frustrate my favorite ghostess.
She sent me away with tone emphatic,
And I swooped from the rooms of my dust-charmed attic.
The porch was crammed with warm alumnae,
Whose corsages were wilting, as indeed was I;
There I stopped to tilt a preposterous hat—
(In the flesh I was much more reserved than that.)
Each frightful hat framed a friendly face,
But my destination was another place.
I slipped to the Bookstore with stealthy approach
And raised the cover of the new STAGECOACH.
I peeked at my pictures and was pleased to see
They were definitely, strikingly me.
I scrutinized the faces dear,
And perhaps I may have shed a tear.
For a moment I saw into future days,
(For such is my power and such are my ways)
When these young ladies their children will raise.
When they have a minute after dinner,
And have tied in bed each little sinner,
I hope they'll not forget this book,
But pull it out and have a look;
And recall the fun of Saint Mary's halls
Before the baby interrupts with squalls.
Much later still when the children are grown,
And again they've time to call their own,
They'll see the faces of once-young friends
With whom time's rage also contends.
They'll all have lumbago and rheumatiz
And muscle-aches where no muscle is.
If they'll close the book and forget their pain,
And, remembering Saint Mary's, charter a plane
To visit in person their old habitats
I'll meet them here; I'll tilt back their hats,
Their faces to scan that I may discern
If they absorbed the lessons I set them to learn . . .
Then I suddenly remembered
'Twas hours since eleven
And my blessings gave to the Saint's '57.

THE GHOST OF DR. SMEDES.

Dedicated humbly, gratefully, and devotedly to
Mr. HUGHES

The legend of the Ghost of Dr. Smedes
And his famed attic home
You would accept if you could see
Him through the campus roam.

He dines and sleeps and entertains
In garret cozy and warm,
But daily, faithful calls he makes
Through classroom, gym, and dorm.

He's perched upon your hockey stick
Each time you make a goal,
And he's at every meeting held—
"Though he's not on the roll.

He occupies that empty desk
In lab and lecture too,
And if your seat is near the back
He may sit next to you.

He dons his tux for every dance
Inside the fancy gym.
His dress may seem quite strange to you,
But looks just right on him.

He stands in the receiving line,
His glasses on his nose,
And during intermission time
He takes a little doze.

If the orchestra plays a familiar piece,
A Viennese waltz perchance,
With courtly bow and debonair,
He may ask you to dance.

If you would know our Dr. Smedes,
Then of him have no fear;
Someday, when you expect him least,
You'll see him standing near.

Prophecy

This is it!!! Only fifteen seconds remain, ladies and gentlemen, before the take-off of the first rocket ship to the moon. Now 5 . . . 4 . . . 3 . . . 2 . . . 1. There she goes—The Saint Mary's Angel.

This is most unusual, folks: the 1957 class of S.M.J.C. has just left to form a new civilization on the moon. We have here plans of what each hopes to do. Let's read them.

The class is very fortunate in having petite Ruth Fukuda on hand to act as interpreter for the moon-men. Since this is an unusually gifted class, there are many celebrities; but the brightest star by far is president-elect, Frances Pearson who is on her way to the moon to play golf. But speaking of celebrities, on board also are four members of King Saoul's harem—Jane Walker, Margie Reese, Anne Speir, and Polly Daniel.

Some of these space travelers bent on literary pursuits are: Ann Bonner and Mamie Ruth Parks confided they were going to get away from it all and write the much-needed book, How To Get Along With Your English Teacher; Jane Rhea White will take over the column of her advisor and will write each Sunday, "English As It Is Writ and Spoke." Barry Bowen plans a sequel to "Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer," while Sylvia Crumpler intends to finish her book, How To Pick a Good Date At West Point, and dedicate it to her friend, Legare Hobbs. Everyone knows that Erie Huske's "Advice to the Lovelorn" is internationally read, but Eric says that she gets most of her letters from Camille Grice, Diddy Seoville, and Elise Bond. Last, but by no means least of the writers are the famous Joyee Curry and Jane Irby, co-authors of the famous book, How to Fleck In and Still Pass at Saint Mary's.

Helen Corbett plans to open an exclusive dress shop which is certain to be a success due to her efficient staff: Mickie Crumpler and Nancy Black, designers; Barrett Proctor, high-fashion model; and Betsy Brinkley, special model for ladies' shoes. And here is a word to the wise—Mary Lou Maeon and Sarah Nicholson will be on hand to model sweaters and bathing suits! Helen's shop will be decorated by the famous team, Lou Cheatham and Mary Spainhour, Lou's seven French poodles and Mary's nine thoroughbred stallions will be shipped later.

Dotty Peirson and Sharon Ridgeway plan to set up a frat and be house mothers for any stray Kappa Sig's that happen to drop by. Lee Arhagast and Sarah Frances Williams, both millionairesses, leave Earth to get away from their five husbands. Louise Oliver, wife of movie star Rock Hudson, is planning a short rest. And Coleman Jenkins, Miss America, Miss Universe, and Miss Galaxy, has just divorced her ninth husband and is going to the moon to find the tenth. Also in the way of beauty it seems that Julia Willcox and Josie Ward are vying with each other for the title, "Playmate of the Year."

Several girls are more interested in the intellectual side of the trip: Betty Bond and Sissy McNinch plan to set up a business school modeled after the one of their ideal, Miss Boineau; while Lucy McPherson, Anne Powell, and Phyllis Wall, who have just returned from studying the classics in Greece and discovering that the Saint Mary's English Department had already taught them everything, are searching for primary knowledge of moon lit. Sally Ruark and Elinor Newberne plan to teach French, but Sally is rather worried that Elinor won't make it to class on time. Ann Robinson will open a school for teaching aspiring young moon-struck females Southern charm. Her capable assistants will be Lynne Courtney and Carol Freeman. Margaret Louise Hamilton and Pat Adams will set up an outpost of the Arthur Murray studio and give bop lessons to the more jivey set of moon-men. Margaret Louise, by the way, just received five million dollars in a suit against her ex-hubby, Elvis Presley. And here's more gossip—there's a good chance for a clash on the ship, because Presley's present wife, Weezie Hill, is along also. Also on board are Lynne Palmer and Naney Tunnell from the Ozarks—still looking for the lost ballad.

We see that Mary Catherine Jones is now truly a member of the globe-trotters and is along to arrange for basketball on the moon. Dee Dee DeVere, the great swimmer of the English Channel, is going to see what new channels she can conquer there. In her spare time she plans to publish Polly Prude books.

We should mention here that Landrum Manning and Kay Wilhelm are not aboard this space ship. They have finally acquired that other ring for their left hands and will follow with their husbands and new additions later. Joanne Farlowe will come with them. Joanne now has a Dennis the Menace to keep her Debbie company.

Mary Ann and Allene Keith, the world famous philanthropists (for derivation and definition of that word we suggest an unabridged dictionary), plan to give a rest home to their classmates and future S.M. Students. Betsy Hargrave and Kim Hateher, psychoanalysts, are already setting up extra wards for the patients who will arrive immediately following their Senior English Exam. It seems that they now have two patients as a result of a brawl between Westbrook Fowler and Carolyn Davis over who would get to kiss Tab Hunter goodbye.

The space ship was almost delayed in leaving Earth, because Barbara Thomas, the celebrated artist, just barely made connections from Paris, where she is the toast of the Left Bank. She was accompanied by Ann Smith, who plans to establish another second heaven, Goldsboro, on the moon.

Here is a flash! Aboard the ship Tora Kessinger and Barbara Harwood are the winners of the Huckleback Contest. The music was furnished by Ann Fennell and her hep-eats, Ruth Brock, Ann Byrd, and Roberta Rucker, and featuring that star of all stars, Joan Brooks singing "Earth Bound." Sue Stanford and Mary Tillery, the pair who made that fabulous oil strike in Outer Mongolia, have just won the Cut-Throat Bridge Tournament.

By far the largest number of girls are interested in show business. Joy Howell plans to open in "My Fair Lady" in the Moonglow Theatre. Appearing with her are Libby Gregory, Katy Copp, Catherine Dent, and Flo Dodd in the chorus line. They all say they owe their present success to their days in Orchesis. Another famous musician on board is Carolyn (Liberace) Charles (plus the smile and the curls). Jennie Proctor, and Marilyn Zschau are going to appear in the famous Moon Metropolitan House. Dorothy Harley, Carol Biggers, and Patricia Huske are going to the moon because they wish to get away from publicity after the production of "Honey Chile," the most controversial movie since "Baby Doll." Carolyn Myers, who won an oscar for her film portrayal of Eloise, is on board.

And this about winds it up: so happy sailing, moon maids.

Last Will and Testament

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA
COUNTY OF WAKE
City of Raleigh

On this third day of June, 1957, we, the Senior crew members of the good ship, Saint Mary's, bequeath the following articles in the following manner:

ARTICLE I

To Dr. Stone, our pilot, we leave our gratitude for careful navigation. To "Miss R.," our captain, we leave our thanks for her patient guidance during our two year voyage. To Miss Morrison, our first mate, we leave our appreciation for able assistance. And to the good ship, Saint Mary's, we leave a promise to uphold her standards and to proclaim her praises in our years abroad.

ARTICLE II

And we, the crew:

I, Pat Adams, leave the grove of Academe for the orange groves.

I, Lee Arbogast, leave Mr. Moore and all my political aspirations.

I, Carol Biggers, bequeath the name Emma to all those confined in the infirmary with unmentionable disorders.

I, Nancy Black, leave my dubious contacts with Hall Council to Toddy Mann.

We, Betty Bond and Sissy McNinch, leave 2nd Holt completely quiet.

We, Elise Bond and Frances Pearson, leave our ability to meet any deadlines to the rising Seniors.

I, Ann Bonner, leave my French linguistic ability to Cobbie.

I, Barry Bowen, bequeath my favorite record, "Love and Marriage," to Jane Brady.

I, Betsy Brinkley, bequeath my bottle of Pepto-Bismal to next year's Senior Class President.

We, Ruth Brock and Carol Freeman, will our serenity to Peppy Currie and Cov.

I, Joan Brooks, leave to snow all Chapel Hill with my rendition of "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend."

I, Anne Byrd, leave for Tokyo.

I, Carolyn Charles, alias Miss Winston-Salem, recommend the psychological approach to Ann Hobson.

I, Lou Cheatham, leave my well-worn path to Chapel Hill to Nancy Page Hopkins.

We, Catharine Copp and Legare Hobbs, leave the State Kappa Sigs to anyone else with our determination.

I, Helen Corbett, leave to keep the home fires burning with Woodard.

I, Lynne Courtney, bequeath my efficiency to Pat Coulter.

I, Sylvia Crumpler, leave my exquisite sleeping garments to Jessie Allen.

I, Joyce Curry, leave my height to Dickie Robinson.

I, Carolyn Davis, will my Hit-Paraders to anyone who loves a filter.

I, Polly Daniel, leave my good disposition to the next inhabitants of 3rd Holt, who'll need it after they have climbed those steps a few times.

I, Catherine Dent, leave my Florida sun tan to Midge Bowen.

I, DeeDee DeVere, leave, composed as always.

I, Flo Dodd, leave my common sense to Dot Overbeck.

I, Joanne Tripp Farlowe, leave my unique status to Mary Ann Heath.

I, Anne Fennell, bequeath my drawl to Sally Royle.

I, Westbrook Fowler, leave, if I can find the way out.

I, Ruth Fukuda, leave my Japanese edition of the Divine Comedy to next year's Senior Class, who will probably learn as much from it as they would the English edition.

I, Libby Gregory, can't leave, because I must answer the 1st Holt phone.

I, Camille Grice, leave the Country Club for a blast.

I, Margaret Louise Hamilton, leave my blond tresses to Joy Little.

I, Betsy Hargrave, leave to play football.

I, Dorothy Harley, leave the Y.W.C.A. for the more interesting Y.M.C.A.

I, Barbara Harwood, bequeath my mathematical mind to Bibi Walker.

I, Kim Hatcher, leave the Day Students' Room with pleasure.

I, Weezie Hill, leave minus one kidney stone.

I, Joy Howell, leave my inimitable dance techniques to Shirley Smith.

I, Eric Huske, leave my ability to know and tell all to whoever will listen.

I, Trisha Huske, leave for Morehead to chaperone Dee Dee.

I, Jane Irby, leave unpassed petitions for more freedom to next year's Leg. Body.

I, Coleman Jenkins, bequeath my title, Aphrodite, to anyone else with my distribution of avoiropois.

I, Mary Catherine Jones, leave Big under the supervision of Dabbs.

We, the Keith twins, leave our ability to exchange identities to the Yeamans.

I, Tora Kessinger, leave my remote habitat to anyone who doesn't mind climbing stairs.

I, Landrum Manning, leave softly humming, "Here Comes the Bride."

I, Carolyn Myers, leave to pour water down the mail chute.

I, Lucy McPherson, leave my nonchalance to Ginny McPherson.

We, Elinor Newberne, Mary Lou Macon, and Sarah Nicholson, leave our freedom as day students to the boarders who never had it so good.

I, Louise Oliver, left my summer reading notes at home.

I, Lynne Palmer, leave for Winston-Salem.

I, Mamie Ruth Parks, leave a campus slip in every room on 3rd Smedes, East.

I, Dotty Peirson, leave the Granddaughters' Club to enter into the cold, cruel world.

I, Anne Powell, leave my worries and exaggerations to Emeline Elmore.

I, Jennie Proctor, leave my song-bird voice to Nancy Sullivan.

I, Margie Reese, bequeath my Mor-Cal to Dr. Browne.

I, Sharon Ridgeway, leave my lesser ambitions (S. M. J. C.) to pursue higher goals (MRS).

I, Ann Robinson, leave my much used date book to Jane Bellamy.

I, Sally Ruark, leave Mr. Moore—O.K.?

I, Roberta Rucker, leave my self-portrait to hang in the front hall of Smedes.

I, Cynthia Scoville, bequeath my knitting needles to Millie Fary.

I, Ann Smith, will my freckles to Brooks Newton.

I, Mary Spainhour, leave my Grace Kelly air to Kit Tiedeman.

I, Anne Speir, leave summer reading to the birds.

I, Sue Stanford, leave psychology to anyone who can pass it.

I, Barbara Thomas, leave the Kappa Sigs at Davidson, except for one, to Chee Davis.

I, Mary Tillery, leave Barbara Thomas very, very sadly.

I, Nancy Tunnell, leave my titian tresses to Louise Landauer, who tried to achieve some of her own.

I, Jane Walker, leave dainty 3½ size footprints leading to the nearest blast.

I, Phyllis Wall, leave my continuous loafing ability to Weezie Key.

I, Josie Ward, leave my collection of runned stockings to Dana Borden.

I, Jane Rhea White, leave Belles worries to anyone who will take them.

I, Kay Wilhelm, take my Home Ec. with me.

I, Julia Willcox, leave my posture to the new marshals.

I, Sarah Frances Williams, leave to raise carrot-tops.

I, Marilyn Zschau, leave for the Met.

We, the testators, Mickie Crumpler and Barrett Proctor, leave hurriedly to avoid injury at the hands of our classmates.
